A. COMMITTEE SETUP

A committee is like a discussion room where delegates engage in discussions, debate, and attempt to resolve global issues. Each committee focuses on one main agenda. For example - UNSC, UNICEF etc.

A committee consist of:

- Chair: The Chair in an MUN is the person who leads the committee, manages the debate, ensures rules are followed, and helps delegates stay organised and respectful throughout the session.
- Vice-Chair: The Vice-Chair in an MUN supports the Chair by helping manage the debate, keeping time, maintaining the speaker's list, and assisting with any procedural matters during the session.
- Delegates: Participants of an MUN and Representatives of Countries.

B. SPECIFIC PROCEDURES of PMUN 2026-27

1. Quorum: A Minimum of 20 delegates will be required to conduct the PMUN in a committee.
2. The Position Paper is the only paper that needs to be submitted to the Chair.
3. The Position Paper should be submitted to the Chair of their respective Committees two days before the Conference.
4. For bloc formation, ensure there are at least three countries in a bloc.
5. The final Resolution will be passed by a 2/3rd majority in the voting process.

C. PMUN TERMS: Motions, Points and Yields

Before we learn about the Flow of Events, let's understand some important terms to be used when communicating in a PMUN.

1. Motion

- A motion is a formal request made by a delegate during a MUN session to guide or change the flow of the debate.
- Motions help structure the discussion, introduce new topics, or move the committee into different types of debate or action.
- Motions must be voted on by the committee, and only if they pass by a simple majority can the suggested action take place.
- Delegates raise their placard to propose a motion. The chair recognises the country's proposal and asks for a vote to pass the proposed motion among other delegates.

Common Motions in MUN with Examples:

Motions	Examples
1. Motion to Open the General Speakers' List (GSL)	"Motion to open the General Speakers' List for discussion on the agenda."
2. Motion for a Moderated Caucus	"Motion for a 10-minute moderated caucus on renewable energy solutions, with 1-minute speaking time."
3. Motion for an Unmoderated Caucus	"Motion for a 15-minute unmoderated caucus to draft a resolution."
4. Motion to Close the Speakers' List	"Motion to close the General Speakers' List."
5. Motion to Introduce a Draft Resolution	"Motion to introduce Draft Resolution 1.1."
6. Motion to Move into Voting Procedure	"Motion to enter Voting Procedure on Draft Resolution 1.1"

2. Points: These are formal tools used by delegates to address the chair or the committee, mainly for questions, clarifications, or procedural concerns, as given below.

Points	Examples
1. Point of Order: Raised when a delegate believes rules of procedure are being violated.	"Point of order: The delegate has exceeded the time limit."
2. Point of Personal Privilege: Raised when a delegate experiences personal discomfort (e.g., can't hear, room temperature, etc.)	"Point of personal privilege: Could the delegate please speak louder?"
3. Point of Parliamentary Inquiry: Asked when a delegate has a question about the rules or what is procedurally allowed.	"Point of parliamentary inquiry: Can I yield my time to another delegate after my speech?"
4. Point of Information / Point of Inquiry: To ask a question to another delegate, often after they have spoken and yielded time to questions.	"Point of Information / Point of Inquiry: Does the delegate recognise the humanitarian impact of this resolution?"
5. Right of Reply: Requested when a delegate feels their country or themselves were insulted or misrepresented and granted at the chairperson's discretion.	"Right of Reply: The delegate of Country _____ has made offensive remarks about my nation's government."

3. Yields:

- In Model United Nations (MUN), yields are used when a delegate finishes their speech and has remaining speaking time.
- How a delegate yields that time determines what happens next.
- Yields are only used during formal speeches and debates.

Types of Yields and Examples in PMUN:

Yields	Examples
1. Yield to the Chair: The delegate gives up the remainder of their time. The Chair moves to the next speaker. When to use: If you don't want to take questions or yield to another delegate.	"With that, I yield the rest of my time to the chair."
2. Yield to Another Delegate: You give the rest of your speaking time to another delegate of your choice.	"I yield the remainder of my time to the delegate of Brazil."
3. Yield to Questions: You allow other delegates to ask you questions (not comments). The chair will then say, "The floor is open for points of information. Delegates raise placards to ask questions."	"I now yield the remainder of my time to questions."

Important Notes:

- If you run out of time, you can't yield; you must yield before your time is up.
- Yielding to the chair is the safest option if you're unsure.

D. Overview: Flow Of Events

E. RULES OF PROCEDURES

1. Roll Call of Delegates

Roll calls are conducted at the beginning of each day. The chair announces each country's name. After a delegate hears their country being called, they answer with a 'Present' or 'Present and Voting'.

- Present: This means you can choose to vote yes, no or abstain on any resolution/amendment.
- Present and Voting: This means you must only choose to vote between 'yes' or 'no' on any resolution or amendment. You can not abstain from voting.

If a delegate misses their roll call, they are expected to inform the Chair of their voting stance via a chit.*

2. The General Speakers' List (Opening Speech)

- The General Speaker's List is a list made by the Chair after taking attendance (roll call). It shows the order in which delegates will give their opening speeches.
- An Opening Speech is the first speech a delegate gives at the start of the MUN conference.
- Delegates take turns delivering their opening speeches in the order they appear on the General Speaker's list.
- To register for a speaking opportunity, delegates raise their placards, and the chair recognises them, formally accepting their country into the speaker's list.

3. Setting the Agenda

Setting the agenda is the process by which delegates decide which agenda the committee will discuss first among those shortlisted by the Chair from the background guide.

Voting on the Agenda:

- The Chair announces, "We will now move into setting the agenda."
- Delegates vote on the agendas for and against.
- The agenda that wins the majority is taken up for debate first.

4. Moderated Caucus

A moderated caucus is a structured and formal aspect of Model United Nations (MUN) debate that enables delegates to engage in focused, interactive discussions on a specific part of the agenda.

Any delegate may propose a motion for a moderated caucus, which must outline:

- The total duration (e.g., 10 or 15 minutes)
- Individual speaking time (e.g. 60 seconds)
- The specific topic or sub-issue to discuss

After the motion is made, the Chair calls for a vote. If two-thirds of the delegates' votes are in favour, the moderated caucus begins.

Please note:

- In a moderated caucus, delegates raise their placards to be recognised to speak; each delegate is given a speaking time of 60 seconds.
- There can be multiple moderated caucuses during the debate.

5. Unmoderated Caucus

An unmoderated caucus is a break from formal speaking, during which delegates can move around the room, discuss freely, and form blocs to exchange ideas and solutions. They work in their blocs to draft resolutions.

Bloc Building: Bloc building occurs when delegates of different countries with similar ideas or goals team up and form a group. These groups are called Blocs. The countries in a bloc may have similar environmental, economic or financial interests. They discuss solutions and draft resolutions together during the MUN.

Process for Building a Bloc:

- i. Find Like-Minded Delegates: Talk to other delegates and see who agrees with your country's views on the topic.
- ii. Form a Bloc: Create a bloc with these countries. Give your bloc a name if you like!
- iii. Discuss Together: Share ideas and decide on the best solutions as a team.
- iv. Working with the bloc: Now, discuss and exchange ideas with delegates from countries that share similar views (your Bloc). Use your ideas, points and solutions to make your Draft Resolution in collaboration with your Bloc.

6. Presenting Draft Resolutions and Amendments

- After bloc formation, delegates begin drafting the resolution and submit it to the chair.
- The Chair reviews the draft resolution and then it is presented to the Committee.
- The Draft Resolution is then voted on by the Committee to reach the final resolution.

Important Note:

- There can be more than one draft resolution in a committee, depending on the negotiations between the blocs.
- It is advisable to restrict the number of draft resolutions to two for smoother and faster procedures.
- The goal is to agree on only one Final Resolution that everyone in the committee supports.

Draft Resolution: A Draft Resolution is a formal document written by delegates in a MUN committee that follows the official UN format, which includes preambulatory and operative clauses, and outlines proposed solutions to the issue being discussed. It is then debated, amended, and voted on before becoming a Final Resolution.

Amendments:

- An amendment is a formal change or addition proposed to a Draft Resolution after it is presented to the committee but before the final vote takes place.
- Sponsors of the Draft Resolution can propose to add, remove, or modify specific clauses.
- The amended version of the resolution proceeds to the final vote.

Types Of Amendments:

Friendly Amendment	Unfriendly Amendment
If all the sponsors of the draft resolution agree to the change, the amendment is automatically added without a vote. The draft resolution is amended accordingly and proposed for further processing i.e. final vote.	If all sponsors do not agree with the change, the committee must debate and vote on it. If the majority of countries vote in favour of the amendment, the sponsor must add the amendment to the resolution to pass. However, the sponsors can ignore the suggested amendments if they are not voted upon by a majority.

Example: The Committee is discussing the draft resolution for the following agenda.

- Agenda: "Improving Access to Clean Water."
- Proposed Solution: "Suggests that countries invest some percentage of their national budget in water infrastructure."

Example of Friendly Amendment	Example of Unfriendly Amendment
Delegate of India: "Honourable Chair, I would like to propose an amendment. I suggest we add that countries invest at least 5% of their national budget on water infrastructure." Chair: "Does the sponsor of the resolution agree with the amendment?" Delegate of Brazil (Main sponsor): "Yes, we agree. It improves the solution and makes it stronger." Chair: "Since all sponsors agree, this is a friendly amendment. It will be added to the resolution without a vote." Result: The resolution now reads: "Encourages governments to invest at least 5% of their national budget on water infrastructure."	Delegate of Russia: "Honourable Chair, I propose an amendment to remove the solution. Not all countries can commit to 5% of their national budget, and it might be unrealistic." Chair: "Do the sponsors of the resolution agree with this change?" Delegate of Brazil (Main sponsor): "No, we believe the solution is important and should stay." Chair: "Since not all sponsors agree, this is an unfriendly amendment. The committee will now debate the amendment and then vote on whether it should be accepted." Result: The committee discusses and then votes on whether to remove the solution or keep it. If the unfriendly amendment receives a majority in the voting, it will be compulsory to add it to the draft resolution.

7. Voting on Draft Resolutions:

The voting procedure is the final step where delegates vote on draft resolutions or amendments to decide whether they are accepted or rejected by the committee. It only begins when a motion is raised to enter the voting procedure, and no further debate can happen after that.

Note: In order to be passed, a resolution must be approved by a two-thirds majority of the committee members.

Steps of the Voting Procedure:

Motion to Enter Voting Procedure: A delegate makes a motion; if this motion passes, the committee stops all debate and proceeds to voting.

Doors are Sealed

- No one is allowed to enter or leave the room.
- No talking is allowed, and the room must be silent.

Voting: Delegates raise their placards:

- In Favour
- Against
- Abstain (only if present)

(Tech Tip: You can also use online applications such as muncoordinated or mymun for the voting procedure.)

Counting and Announcement

- The Chair and Vice-Chair count the votes.
- The Chair announces whether the resolution or amendment has passed or failed.

Final Resolution:

- The Chair announces which Draft Resolution has passed. It is the result of teamwork, debate, and a voting process.
- It is the solution that most delegates have agreed on.

G: MUN Document Samples and Practice Sheets

1. POSITION PAPER

A Position Paper is a short document written from the perspective of the country a delegate represents, outlining the nation's stance on the topics being debated in their committee. It covers the country's views, its past actions on the issue, and the solutions it proposes. Its purpose is to establish your country's stance, guide your speeches and negotiations, signal potential allies, and demonstrate your preparedness going into the debate.

a. Position Paper Sample

Committee: General Assembly for the Social, Humanitarian, and Cultural Committee (SOCHUM)

Topic: Brain Drain - The Migration of Health Care Workers

Country: Central African Republic (CAR)

Delegate Name: Raj Sharma

School Name: Podar International School, Mumbai

Introduction/Background of the topic:

The Central African Republic, one of the world's poorest nations, faces a severe healthcare crisis driven by brain drain – the emigration of doctors, nurses, and skilled workers to wealthier countries offering better pay and conditions. This has left CAR critically understaffed, with only 0.08 doctors per 1,000 people according to the WHO. The impact is continent-wide, with Africa losing approximately $2 billion annually due to skilled worker migration.

Country's Position/Policy:

The Central African Republic recognizes brain drain as a critical threat to healthcare rights. While respecting individuals' freedom to work abroad, CAR stresses the need for stronger support systems to retain health workers within their communities. Wealthy nations must refrain from actively recruiting from already understaffed countries. CAR endorses the WHO Global Code of Practice on fair health worker recruitment, and echoes UN Secretary-General António Guterres' words that "no country can afford to lose its most skilled people, especially in health care, where every worker counts."

Past International Actions:

The World Health Organization (WHO) created the Global Code of Practice in 2010 to encourage ethical recruitment of health workers. Some countries have also supported African nations with medical training and aid. However, these actions have not been strong enough. Many health workers still leave because their home countries lack proper hospitals, pay, and safety. The United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and African Union have both highlighted the brain drain as a threat to development and health equality.

Possible Solutions (What you want to pass in your MUN resolution):

The Central African Republic believes that addressing brain drain requires both local action and international support, and proposes the following measures:

1. Increased international funding to improve hospitals, equipment, and health worker training.
2. Better incentives such as improved pay, housing, and job security to retain health workers locally.
3. Ethical recruitment agreements to prevent developed nations from poaching health workers from shortage-affected countries.
4. Return programs to encourage and support health workers abroad to come back home.
5. Regional cooperation with African nations to establish shared training programs.

These combined efforts aim to reduce brain drain and strengthen healthcare across the region.

Conclusion (optional)

The Central African Republic believes that health care is a basic human right. We must work together to keep our health workers in the country and improve the system for all. With international support and fair practices, we can reduce brain drain and ensure that every person—no matter where they live—has access to healthcare.

2. OPENING SPEECH

An Opening Speech is a short, formal address that a delegate delivers at the start of a MUN committee session. Its purpose is to:

- Introduce the delegate's country/organization.
- Present the country's position on the agenda/topic.
- Outline key concerns, goals, and proposed solutions.
- Set the tone for future negotiations and alliances.

a. Opening Speech Sample:

Committee: United Nations Development Programme (UNDP)

Country: Republic of Kenya

Agenda: Strengthening Rural Water Infrastructure in Sub-Saharan Africa to Advance SDG 6 (Clean Water and Sanitation)

Formal Greeting:

Honourable Chair, distinguished delegates,

Country Introduction:

The Republic of Kenya is honoured to participate in this crucial discussion on strengthening rural water infrastructure in Sub-Saharan Africa, in support of achieving Sustainable Development Goal 6.

Statement of the Issue:

Access to clean water is not just a human right; it is the foundation for public health, education, agriculture, and gender equality.

Country's Position & Past Action:

In Kenya, despite significant progress, millions of people in rural communities still face daily challenges in accessing safe and reliable water.

The Republic of Kenya believes that addressing this issue requires a multi-dimensional approach: improving local water infrastructure, supporting community-based water management, investing in renewable energy solutions for pumping and purification, and most importantly, ensuring international cooperation.

Goals & Proposed Solutions:

Kenya applauds the efforts of the African Union, UN-Water, and various non-governmental organisations working tirelessly on the ground. However, we urge all member states to increase their financial and technical commitment to building climate-resilient water systems that will serve future generations.

Call for Collaboration:

We stand ready to collaborate, share successful models such as our Water Sector Trust Fund, and work with all delegates towards equitable, innovative, and sustainable solutions for rural water access across our continent.

Thank you.

Together, let us strive to achieve SDG 6 and ensure clean and safe water for every rural community in Sub-Saharan Africa.

Thank you.

Please note: This is just a practice sheet. On the day of the actual PMUN Conference, delegates will make their own opening Speech.

Tips for Students:

- Be concise - Stick to 1-2 minutes (about 150-250 words).
- Be country - specific - Represent your assigned country's perspective, not your personal view.
- Use formal and diplomatic language - Avoid slang or casual phrases.
- Prioritize clarity over jargon - Your message should be easy to follow.
- Practice delivery - Tone, pace, and confidence matter.
- Avoid extreme or offensive statements - Even in disagreement, maintain diplomacy.

3. DRAFT RESOLUTION

Draft Resolution: A Draft Resolution is a formal document written by delegates in a MUN committee that follows the official UN format, which includes preambulatory and operative clauses, and outlines proposed solutions to the issue being discussed. It is then debated, amended, and voted on before becoming a Final Resolution.

a. Key Features of a Draft Resolution

The Draft Resolution follows a format that includes:

- Committee name (e.g., UNICEF, UNHRC)
- Agenda
- Sponsors (authors of the resolution)*
- Signatories (supporters who want it discussed)*
- Draft Resolution number (e.g., Draft Res. 1.1)
- MUN Clauses:

i. Preambulatory Clauses (Context & Background)

These clauses explain the background of the issue, including past UN actions, treaties, relevant data, and the reasons for the proposed action.

ii. Operative Clauses (Solutions & Actions)

These outline the actual steps the bloc wants to take.

Usage of some common Preambulatory phrases to make clauses

Examples of Preambulatory Clauses	Examples of Operative Clause
Acknowledging the efforts of NGOs in rural education, Affirming the importance of equal access to education, Alarmed by the increasing dropout rates among girls, Appreciating donor countries' support for education, Bearing in mind previous General Assembly resolutions, Deeply concerned by the lack of school infrastructure, Emphasising the right to education as a human right, Having adopted the SDG agenda in 2015, Noting with concern the education gap in rural areas, Recalling the Convention on the Rights of the Child, Recognising progress made by South Asian governments, Referring to UNESCO reports on educational inequality, Stressing the need for gender-sensitive curricula, Welcoming new regional education initiatives,	Calls upon member states to implement inclusive education policies; Condemns the use of chemical weapons in conflict zones; Encourages collaboration between regional health organisations; Endorses the World Health Organisation's guidelines on pandemic preparedness; Invites NGOs to participate in post-disaster rebuilding efforts; Reaffirms the right to education as stated in Article 26 of the UDHR; Recommends the adoption of renewable energy subsidies; Requests the UNHCR to increase support in refugee camps; Supports regional cooperation on cybersecurity measures; Urges all parties to cease hostilities and engage in dialogue;

b. Draft Resolution Sample

- Committee: United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF)
- Agenda: Strengthening Children's Access to Quality Education in South Asia
- Sponsors: India, Bangladesh, Nepal
- Signatories: Sri Lanka, Bhutan, Pakistan, Maldives
- Draft Resolution Number: DR/1.1

Preambulatory Clauses (Context & Background)

Recognizing that education is a fundamental right of every child as outlined in the Convention on the Rights of the Child,

Concerned by the disparities in access to education in South Asia due to factors including poverty, gender inequality, and geographic remoteness,

Acknowledging the efforts of regional organizations such as SAARC and international bodies like UNESCO in promoting education development,

Recalling Sustainable Development Goal 4 which aims to "ensure inclusive and equitable quality education and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all,"

Emphasizing the importance of culturally relevant curricula and teacher training to ensure quality education,

Appreciating ongoing NGO efforts in the region and recognizing the potential for increased multilateral partnerships,

Operative Clauses:

1. Urges member states in South Asia to strengthen national education strategies through community-based awareness initiatives focusing on inclusive access to primary education;
2. Establishes the South Asia Regional Education Fund (SAREF) in cooperation with the World Bank and UNESCO to finance school construction, teacher training, and learning materials in underserved regions;
3. Recommends the creation and deployment of mobile classrooms using renewable energy to reach children in rural and disaster-affected areas;
4. Calls upon member states to collaborate on a regional teacher training exchange program under the SAARC framework, with UNICEF providing technical assistance;
5. Supports the development and adoption of multilingual, culturally relevant, and gender-sensitive digital learning platforms accessible through mobile devices;
6. Requests the annual convening of the "South Asia Education Progress Forum" hosted by UNICEF to monitor implementation, evaluate educational outcomes, and facilitate knowledge-sharing among member states;
7. Encourages increased private-sector partnerships to provide technological infrastructure, digital content, and capacity building;
8. Calls for regular monitoring and transparent reporting of educational indicators to UNICEF for the purpose of global benchmarking and continued funding.
